Acknowledgement of Country

The University of Queensland (UQ) acknowledges the Traditional Owners and their custodianship of the lands on which we meet.

We pay our respects to their Ancestors and their descendants, who continue cultural and spiritual connections to Country.

We recognise their valuable contributions to Australian and global society.

The Brisbane River pattern from A Guidance Through Time
by Casey Coolwell and Kyra Mancktelow.

Commitment to Diversity and Inclusion

Diverse perspectives, abilities, experiences and backgrounds inspire creativity, encourage innovation and enrich our communities.

Members of our broad community are valued and respected for their individuality. UQ strives to create a culturally safe, welcoming and inclusive workplace, with strong community connections and partnerships.

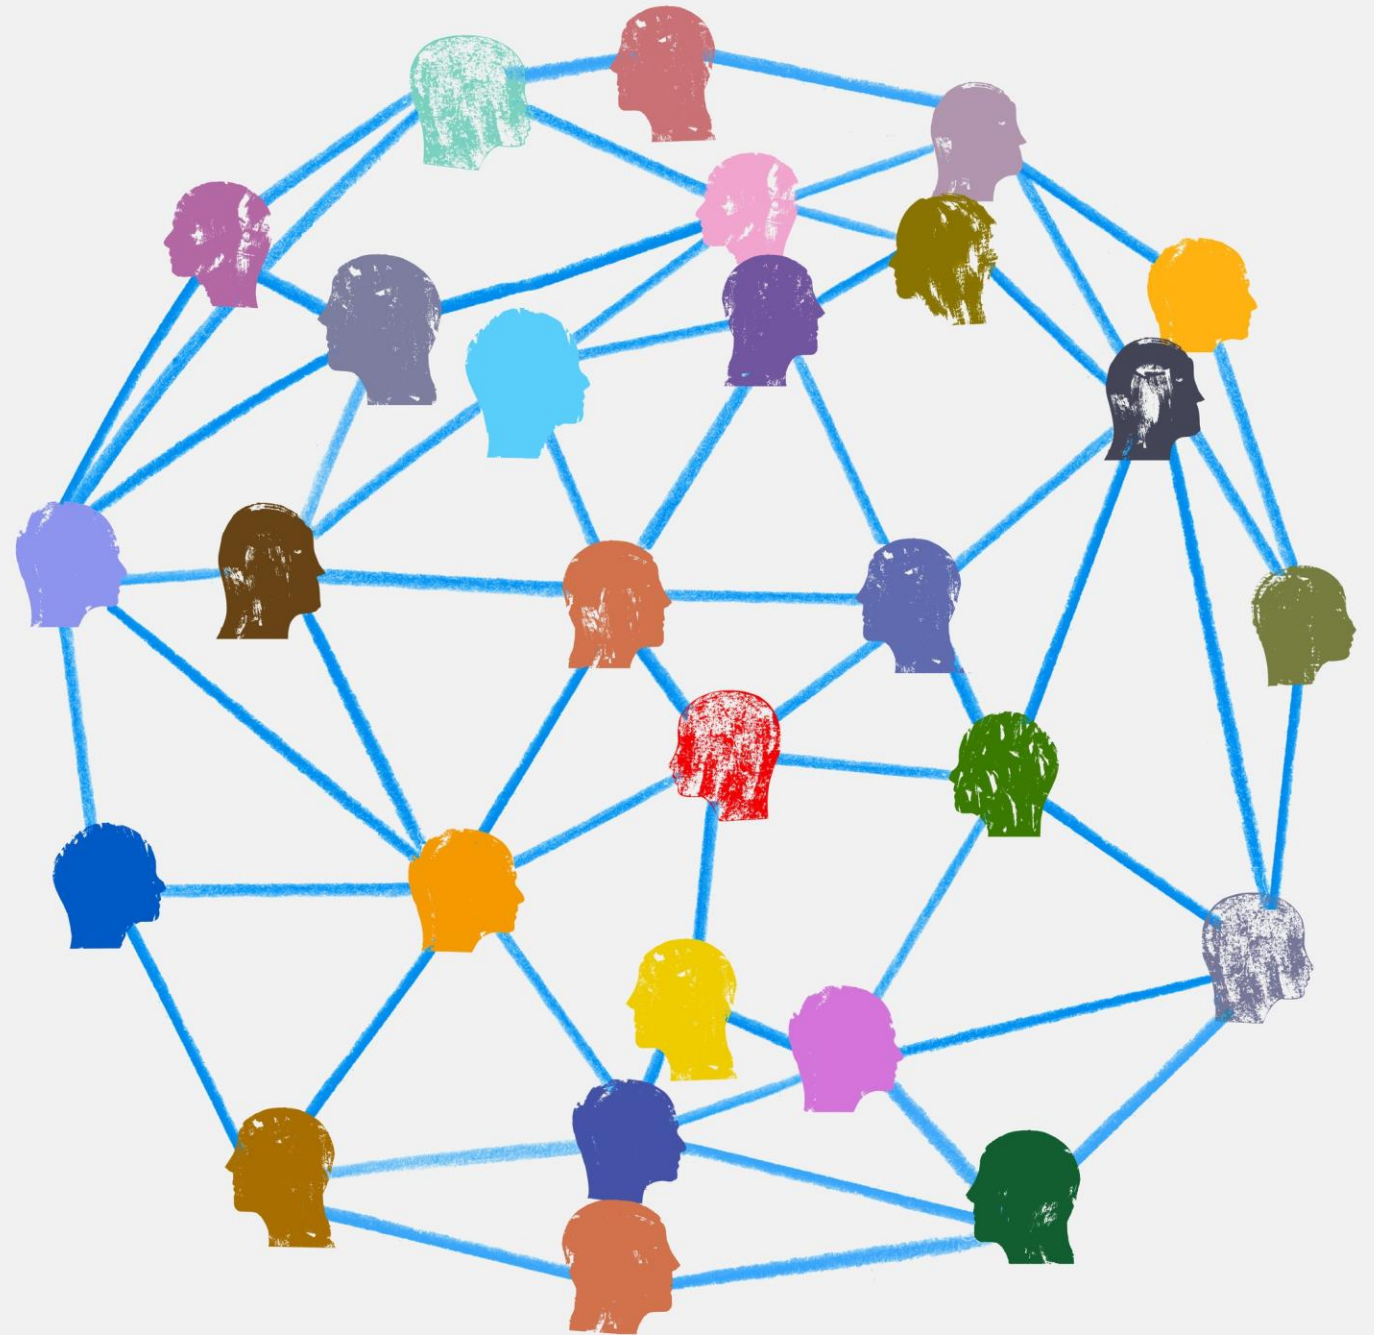

Acknowledgement of lived experience

We acknowledge the lived experience of all individuals here today.

We recognise the diverse backgrounds, stories, journeys that each person brings to our culture and community.

Experiences whether they are of joy, struggle, resilience or growth, are valued and respected.

We honour the wisdom that comes from these experiences and the unique perspectives they provide.

Physical resources (print/hard copy)	Electronic resources (online)
• Books • Journals • Maps • Manuscripts • Textbooks • Theses • CDs • DVDs	• eBooks • Journals • Newspapers • Video • Music • Learning resources • Past exam papers

Tips for finding resources

- Enter search terms as individual words, not sentences.
- Be specific!
- If you get no results, search with broader terms
- Use quotation marks to find an “exact phrase”
- Adding more search terms will return less results
- Use filters after searching to limit your results
- Visit our How to find quality information guide for more tips!

Finding books on the shelves

At UQ, we use the Library of Congress (LC) system to organise our books.

When you look up a book in Library Search, it will give you a call number. This is a combination of letters and numbers that matches a sticker on the spine of the book.

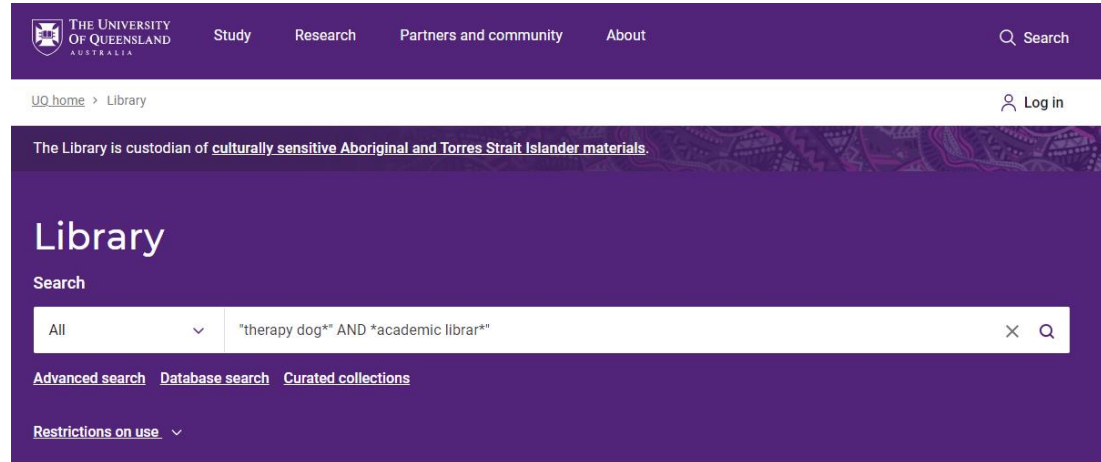

Books are arranged by call number alphabetically, then by number.

- ScienceDirect
A full text database covering multiple disciplines such as life sciences, health sciences, physical sciences and engineering as well as social sciences and humanities.

Referencing guides

- Academic Integrity is taken very seriously by the University
- You will need to reference the sources you draw on in your assignment following a particular style
- Check which referencing style is prescribed for your course on Learn.UQ (Blackboard) or your assignment task sheet
- Then find the referencing guide on the Library's website

The screenshot shows the University of Queensland Library's Referencing guides page. The page has a purple header with navigation links: UQ home, News, Events, Give, Contact, Study, Research, Partners and community, About, and a search bar. Below the header, a breadcrumb trail reads: UQ home > Library > Guides > Referencing > Home. A notice states: "The Library is custodian of culturally sensitive Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander materials." The main content area is titled "Referencing style guides" and includes a section "How to reference using different styles" with a paragraph explaining referencing and a link to an "Introduction to referencing" video. Below this is a section "Which referencing style should I use?" with a bulleted list of considerations. A table lists "Referencing styles used at UQ include:" with columns for "Guides and information", "Full name", and "About the style". The table lists four styles: ACS, AGLC (4th edition), APA (7th edition), and Chicago (17th edition) notes and bibliography. To the right of the table are three dashed boxes containing "Additional information": "Acknowledging and referencing specific formats" with links to various resources, "Referencing software" with links to EndNote guides, and "Other guides for your assignments and research" with a link to subject-specific resources.

Referencing style guides

How to reference using different styles

A referencing style is a set of rules on how to acknowledge the thoughts, ideas and works of others in a particular way. Referencing is a crucial part of successful academic writing, avoiding plagiarism and maintaining academic integrity in your assignments and research. Watch an Introduction to referencing (YouTube, 3m43s).

Which referencing style should I use?

- Check your course profile or ask your lecturer what style you should use
- Some schools or disciplines use a standard style but it is still possible your lecturer may require a different style
- There is no standard style used across UQ
- Researchers submitting a paper for publication in a journal should check the journal's Instructions for Authors, which will normally be available on the journal's website

Referencing styles used at UQ include:

Guides and information	Full name	About the style
ACS	American Chemical Society	Widely used in chemistry and related disciplines.
AGLC (4th edition)	Australian Guide to Legal Citation	The standard Australian guide for referencing in law.
APA (7th edition)	American Psychological Association	The standard style used in psychology, but it is also widely used in other disciplines, especially in the social sciences.
Chicago (17th edition) notes and bibliography Chicago (17th edition) Author-Date	Chicago Manual of Style	The Chicago Manual's footnote referencing system is widely used in the arts and humanities.
